Do not forget the meeting for the nomination and election of a school trustee next Monday.

George Henderson left without purchasing any horses. However, he did the next best thing by purchasing a big car from one of our magistrates.

A very pleasant time was spent at the dance given the Clar-ru Orchestra in the Oddfellow hall, last night.

We are glad to welcome back to our columns again this week, our worthy confreres—the editorial staff of the Chauvin High School Breezes.

A government expert is visiting the farms in the district this week and rendering assistance in the matter of culling the flocks; and also giving gneral intructions regarding poultry.

Do your eyes need attention? If not leave them alone; if they do, consult C. C. McKechnie, Optician & Druggist. Absolutely no glasses recommended if not needed.

There is plenty of water in Chauvin now. J. A. Montjoys cellar being completely filled, whilst the lake round the Oddfellows hall provided boating for some boys on Sunday.

In an attempt to stem the flood, the city fathers had some of the water diverted westward.

For the convenience of their patrons who may wish to ship direct from Chauvin, Artland or Ribstone, the Edmonton City Dairy are paying the freight on all full cans of Cream, and quote the following prices F.O.B. Patrons Station.

No less than twenty four sleighs were lined up waiting for the arrival of grain on the way freight, Saturday morning.

BECOME A MEMBER OF THE CHAUVIN BATHING CLUB

The intimation that we might lose our bathing beach was not received with much rejoicing yesterday and a general desire on the part of many was evidenced by the prompt preparation of a short agreement to form a club and secure the rights to the portion of Salt Lake that has been enjoyed by the public as a Bathing Resort for several years.

About four years ago some half dozen or more of our citizens provided a fund and devoted their time to the erection of the small bath houses, seats and tables that are now in evidence on the grounds.

In becoming a member you will place as a bathing beach has made these rude improvements altogether inadequate to accommodate the numbers that now frequent the place, and other arrangements must be made.

In order that everyone may have equal privileges and that a small fund may be created to pay the rental of the grounds and make the necessary improvements for the accommodation and comfort of all, a fee of $2.00 is required, for which a membership ticket will be given entitling the holder and his family to the use of the grounds for the season. understand that the grounds will be controlled by the regulations adopted for the government of all public bathing places.

Chauvin Delegates Report Of Alberta W. I. Convention

The official opoening of the Convention was at 2.00 p.m., Tuesday.

The Mayor of Edmonton welcomed us alj to the city and then appealed to the Institute to help enforce the liquor laws. Laws are of no consequence unless every individual helps to execute them. Mayor Clarke's suggestion is that if the province wishes to abolish liquor entirely there must be something to replace it.—Amusements that will occupy the time that is usually given to drink. He says the womens Institute os capable of this.

Mrs. Roy answered the Mayor's address, thanking him for his hearty welcome and seconded his idea of the Institutè co-operation with the government to do away with liquor entirely. Our President emphasized on the scandalous things we see caused by liquor in our small towns where we see men paying twice and three times the value a bottle and their families at home are wanting food and clothing. Of course this state exists in the cities but is not so readily noticed as in a small town where each one knows all his neighbours.

Report Of Miss MacIsaac

Since the Armistice was signed it seems a lull has fallen over the people, a relaxation from the continuous strain of war. Our Institutes all did war work and when this was all finished some of them felt as if their work was done. Miss MacIsaac and Mrs. Rogers took up relief work for the drought areas and appealed to all the Institutes to help, for of course this was work for more than two and met with a hearty response. There was not one institute reported in the province that had not done their bit so as Mrs Rogers puts it "Something for us to do is a necessary stimulus to us all." Before I forget it, politics may be discussed, providing they are non-partizan.

Hygiene

Dr Margaret Paterson has prepared ten lectures on 'Preparation for Motherhood' and the "Care of Children" these lectures may be had by any institutes wishing for them. Municipal hospitals are strongly advocated as Institute work

Education

Another phase of women's work is the improvement of school environment, many institutes have this work in hand. Some work for interior decorations, some for inside amusements, others for schoolyard improvements and a good many for the betterment of the play ground, such as sandboxes for the little ones, croquet for the intermediates and basket ball or baseball for the high school. These three things were done for one school.

The convener of education said she had heard of only one school in Alberta where nothing more could be desired, this was the result of institute wrk and I think it a great credit to those who did it.

A hot lunch at noon is served in a good many schools.

We were asked by the Minister of Education to try and have a boarding place for our teachers when they were hired. It is very discouraging to a teacher who arrives a stranger to a place to have to search two or three days for accommodation. The department encourages sconsolidated schools and is giving grants to assist him.

There are now two women inspectors appointed, one to supervise the household economics and the other one for primary work.
There are some districts where the teachers are hard to get and when one is secured they can only keep her for a short time. This is invariably caused by the non-co-operation of the parents with the teacher.
The institutes are working to have free scholarships for the agricultural schools.

Report of Committee on Legislation

Since last years convention four important questions have received Dominion-wide recognition. These being; Health (including care of mental defectives): the right of the child: the state regulation of hours: and wages for labor.
A deputation was sent to the Premier last November to make the following requests. They asked that the whole wheat flour should be placed upon the market again; to have all persons incarcerated in prisons paid wages, in the case of a married man these wages to go to the support of his family and a single man in the bank against the time of his release; that an investigation be made of all the milk supply and steps taken for its control: that means be taken by the railroad as to insure more protection to women and children on the trains: and then to abolish the liquor warehouses.

The Girls Club

The Girls Club is the Institutes daughter in her teens. They are following very closely in their mother clubs footsteps and they also offered some very good suggestions on topics not taken up by the Institutes; for example, the care of the crippled children or soldiers orphans.
Nearly every club is organizing first aid classes and athletic games for the summer months. The most outstanding feature is the girl's energy in social undertakings to aid their finances.
Mrs Morgan is an advocate for Old Folks song. She is like a lawyer pleading for them against a ragtime world which has forgotten them.

Child Welfare

The subject of 'Child's Welfare' embraces anything that has to do with the development of the child mentally physically and morally. It is very necessary to arouse public sentiment in this problem, because the mortality now suffered is largely due to ignorance on the parents part. Deaths in Alberta are reported of children between the ages of one and four years, number 1200. The population of one good sized town of native born citizens is lost to Alberta each year.
This work should be taken up by every institute and pamphlets are obtainable from the Social Service League on 41 different topics. Let us co-operate with our Department of Health in the opportunity to have medical inspection in our schools. The Department of Health will help us in establishing a Child Welfare Station, which will provide inspection for infants and children under school age. This years slogan is "No mothers baby is safe until every mother's baby is safe."

Public Health

One great factor in public health is the necessity of being clothed properly. Let us impress our growing girls with this and remind them that one of the greatest authorities in social work says "I believe the present mode of dress of our young women is responsible for the downfall of more of our young men than all other agencies combined."

One drawback to comfort as well as health is shoes that don't fit. Don't be ashamed of the size of your feet. One is better to have large shoes and a free easy walk than to have tight shoes and the gait of a hen with frozen feet.

Please discourage smoking and drinking among girls. These are becoming more widespread habits among women every day.

Fortunately we are blessed with plenty of fresh air and sunshine, and some institutes are making it their work to help with the water supply in parts where it is very scarce. With these essentials we need a clean well-ventilated home, a frequent bath, and good food simply cooked to be a very healthy people.

Give The Dairymen A Square Deal

BY S N. AYRES, Secretary
Associated Dairymen of California

The consumers are about equally divided between the city and country population. If you destroy the agriculture you will, in turn, destroy the cities. Therefore, it will be apparent to most sensibly SEmfreali to most reasonable-minded people that the welfare of every citizen of the State is bound up in he agricultural industries of the State, and, for that reason, it may be well to try to get the point of view of the country consumer, who, like his city cousin, must necessarily buy the necessities of life in like quantity and of like quality.

Dairymen are a great deal more concerned to-day over the individual problems of making both ends meet than they have over any statistics and long lists of tabulated figures in regard to the production of milk, butter or cheese. The dairymen used to be able to take 100 pounds of milk and exchange for a good pair of shoes; but, to-day at going prices for both milk and shoes, it takes nearly 300 pounds of milk to get ttha pair of shoes.

When he dairyman wants to buy clothes he has to put up in like measure. When he buys clothes he finds that all classes have gone up 100 to 150 per cent in price, which he has 150 per cent in price which is a greater rate of interest than he has received in the past five years for his milk. When he talks about getting a fair price for milk he is immediately met with shouts and execrations from city people hat he is a profiteer.

The dairymen's problem today is to live, and the dairymen maintain that they will not allow he city consumer to force the rural standard of living down to a point where their social religious and educational standards will be impaired. Failing to receive cost and a reasonable profit for milk, dairymen will go out of business.

We hear a good deal of talk now-a-days about a 44-hour week for labor. Practically all the industries in the city have a basic eight-hour day, with time and one-half or double time for over work. The dairyman has no fault to find with this ideal, provided that the man that works eight hours a day in the city is willing to pay the farmer on the same basis. For instance, if the dairyman finds it necessary to get up at 3 o'clock in the morning and work continuously un-6 at night, that means about 14 hours a day. According to city standards, he would get paid for eight hours, six hours overtime, which would bring his wages up to a little over two eight-hour days. Reckoning from this standpoint, no one will deny that the dairyman should figure in his cost of producing milk, accordingly. Let us say right here that if the farmer did that the consumer in the city would be paying far above the present prices for dairy products.

The city consumer also should realize that any man going into the dairy industry is giving up all possibility of any recreation, or holidays, or even Sunday's rest, as the cows have to be milked seven days in the week and 365 days in the year.

Now as to the remedy for the high cost of living. If the people in the cities really wish to get down to business and reduce the cost of living, the farmers will tighten up their belt buckles and concentrate their efforts on larger production. They, however, will not go alone. Let the housewife decide that she will do as the housewife in the country does—do her own baking, washing, cut out the frills, and furbelows and eliminate some of the extravagance of moving pictures and other diversions not found necessary by the rural housewife. If she will stop paying $25 to $50 for hats and from $75 to $150 for everyday dresses, and then go around to her neighbours and brag about the price she paid for them and at the same time to make a howl about 30 cents a month increase in her milk bill, she will be getting somewhere. Eliminate the silk-stocking and silk-skirt craze from some of our younger generation and really get down to "honest-to-goodness" production and economy and the farmer will be with you heart and soul.

If everybody in the big family politic will quit talking and do these things, the farmers will make you this proposition: They will work eight hours for themselves and then devote to he general good this overtime, provided you of the cities will do likewise. If you will do this, you will not need long to cry about the high cost of living, because you will be doing the only thing that can be done to remedy the situation; that is, you will be increasing production in order that you may increase your standards of living.

One thing more: For many, many years prior to the ~~gr~~ war the farmers worked for a bare living. Not only this, but there has been made a steady draught on the fertility of all the soils of this and other countries. We have bbeen mining our soils rather than farming them. In the last five years the farmers everywhere have awakened to the absolute absurdity of working long hours for a bare living and possibly a loss. According to the United States Department of Agriculture, the average income of the average farmer in the United States is less than $800 a year. Now, I say to you city people and you city consumers that the farmer is never again going to work for a mere pittance: he is never again going to mine his soil, and he is never again going to be content with $800 a year when city mechanics are getting $8 a day. You may as well realize this now as any other time.

The position of the farmer was recently admirably stated by George W. Pierce of Davis. He said:

"We take it for granted that no one will argue that the farmer should be denied the necessities of life. Let us suppose that the prices and wages that prevail in our several cities in merchandising, in the trades, in the shops, in the professions, etc. are right, and in them here is no extortion, no profiteering. Let us now suppose that the farmer comes to town.

"He needs a new hat, Formerly he paid about $3 for one; the price now is $5 or more. He must have a hat, but he cannot afford to sell eggs at 20 cents a dozen to pay for a $5 hat. He would have to work his hens overtime to do it and the hens refuse to work overtime.

"He needs a haircut. The price has gone from 25 to 50 cents. The farmer cannot furnish you milk at 7 cents a quart to raise the price of a 50 cent haircut. He needs a shave. The price has jumped from 15 to 25 cents. If he cannot obtain more for his hogs than formerly he will have to cut a shave.

"His Sunday shirt needs laundering. Its cost has doubled. Must he be compelled to sell his beef at greater price to meet his boosted laundry bills. His old suit needs pressing. The cost has raised 100 per cent. If we deny the right to increase the price asked for his poultry, he must go shabby.

The style of the best suit he formerly wore cost $20.00. The same suit to-day costs $50.00 or more, and he must get a corresponding increase for his products or go without a new suit. He strolls into an office. He sees men wearing tailor-made suits that cost from $75.00 upwards, and he wonders whatever they could have been doing to afford such luxuries. That night he takes home a new suit consisting of overalls and a jumper.

The shoes he used to wear cost around $3.00 per pair. They now cost from $7.00 to $12.00. If he were compelled to sell butter at from 25 to 30 cents a pound, as formerly, he would be compelled to go barefooted. There are some people so unreasonable as to really enjoy paying an extravagant price for a pair of shoes solely for the distinction the wearing of them will give, who, at the same time would complain bitterly and howl 'profiteer' if I asked a nickel apiece for eggs. Yet I will wager that one could go further in bare feet than on an empty stomach.

The farmer needs lumber for building or repairs. Raise in the price of 100 to 150 per cent stares him in the face, and he must have more for his beans or abandon his improvement. He hires a carpenter, who begins to work after he himself has done half a day's work already, according to the carpenter's reckoning. The carpenter quits and goes home while the former is still in the field, with another half a day's work at chores waiting for him around home. Can the farmer pay such expenses and sell his potatoes at 50 cents per sack?

In our cities there is a feeling that the farmer is profiteering. Let us plan a method to insure our protection. It seems to be necessary a this time. Suppose we take over the farming industry and manage the financial part of it. We will let he farmer do the work. He seems to understand that part of it and can do it probably as well as we could. We must keep him satisfied, however, so we will allow him and his family the wages they would receive were they city workers. We will guarantee him a 6 per cent income on his investment and take his crop.

'While the farmer should not expect to rate on a salary basis with the bank president, or th manager of a great corporation, he should at least receive the compensation received by the hod-carrier, the carpenter, the mechanic, or possibly the ship-builder. From $1 to $1.50 per hour is not an unusual wage in the later occupations. The farmer works on an average from 12 to 14 hours daily. Fudge on him a little, he will never know the difference, and we will call it 12 hours at $1 per hour, or $12 per day. For 300 working days he will receive $3600. Allow double time for at least 50 Sundays, which amount to $100, as not allowing for any overtime. Then add to these totals $4800. Inasmuch as the average farmer has worked for an average of $800 per year, according to the Agricultural Department, such an income, we feel sure will please him. Of course his wife is entitled to the minimum wage for women as fixed by law, and God only knows how we can keep her from working overtime. Then add to these totals 6 per cent net on the farmer's investment and the crop of yours. Why food products will be so cheap that it will be a pleasure to buy.

Scathing Reply To 'Socialism'

Dear Sir:-

I notice in your last issue a paper on Socialism, and without making any profession of treating this sub-exhaustively, there are a few points on which I'd like to take issue with the writer of that paper—Not for the mere pleasure of crossing swords with him, but because I think that it is time this wide-spread notion that socialism is the panacea for all our social ills, was requested to show proof why it has any right to be calling itself a remedy at all—

If we call cutting off a man's head so that his hands may get a chance to do a little head work a perfectly sane and sensible thing to do, then socialism may be all right, otherwise, we'd better look before we "fall for it." For maybe if we get time to notice the depth we've got to fall we'll decide not to 'fall' at all!

What has socialism in its best form brought us more than any other mode of reform that has had for its aim the amelioration of human ills? and in its worst forms hasn't it brought its victims to conditions the miseries of which have never been touched by the most violent efforts of autocrat privileged class, capitalist, or whatever name we call the fellow who has a dollar or two more than we've got. One can understand how the idea of all men being put on an equal basis would appeal to the soap box orator and the fellow who is so busy fretting out cases of social injustice that he has no time to do any real argument to soothe their wives and families when those last get after them to do the kind of work that brings in money to pay the bills. But how can we expect such an idea to make appeal to the man whose name is Excelsior, and who lives up to his name? What price all his toiling upwards if he's got to divide up with the chap who thinks pockets were made to keep his hands in, not to hold his earnings? Why were the qualities of perseverance, of initiative, —of thrift and good management given to a man, if the results had all to be discounted by the socialistic programme of having all things in common? It would merely be putting a premium on 'the popular pastime of letting George do it' and speaking about George, (or the other fellow) you will notice that no advocate of socialism ever feels he has completely rounded out his argument unless he drags in poor old Rockefeller, or Andy Carnegie and their millions to show how atrociously ill divided things are! But while not holding a brief for multi-millionaires of any description—it has occurred to me that if our grand-fathers hadn't been so busy letting George do it on election day, these gentlemen or their prototypes in this country might never have been able to put it all over us to the extent they have done. If some of them, or us had started earlier to register our "kick" in the right quarter, instead of round the store heater, or the village pump, or even on the soap box we might have managed to put a spoke in their wheel a lot more effectively than by merely holding indignation meetings.

It isn't the strength of the kick we make that counts its the ability to direct it where it can be felt! We've neglected the ballot-box for the soap-box too long, and naturally we've got to suffer, Revolution which is really the aim of the socialist is not a solution of the world's trouble. It will bring about its dissolution instead, and while that may be an agreeable result to folks who have neither home nor stake in the country, the man who by minding his own business, has built up a business can't be expected to favor any such hare-brained scheme, even for the sake of letting his brother man feel that we're all on the same footing. And just watch the man who argues that we're all happier without money, when he's offered a chance to get rich quick! Does he refuse it? Why no, man! He suddenly remembers he's got a family to support, and if other fellows get easy money, why shouldn't he?—etcetera and so on. Consistency is a jewel all right, but it doesn't flash in the scarf pin of the socialist any more than in that of the subject of his denunciations. If you want an example look across to the High priest of Socialism over in Russia.

True, the ordinary garden variety of Socialist tries to disown Trotsky as an exponent of Socialistic ideals, but he's merely Socialism in practice instead of theory, and to a lot of us it looks like a state of madness more than anything else. If we hadn't such dreadful proof to the contrary some of us might have listened more or less patiently to an exposition of its merits, but not since we've had the proofs! We've got to show a little sign of making use of our power of discrimination, and these have told us that while in theory it would pass for a beautiful pipe dream, in practice it means the destruction of all we've worked for of every sacred right and liberty we have, and hoold dear—so that the fellow who would rather be a hobo than an honest man may have a brief hour of triumph!

We can't all be plutocrats or autocrats somebody has got to till the soil, and keep the wheels of industry going round, and to be content to do the best we can, and reap our reward for it will get us in the contented class, quicker than a state of idle envy will. Socialism is a disease of the mind more than anything else. No man will stay "put," even should man to man, the world o'er be brothers yet, for a' that". Either he'll rise, or fall. The only way men can be real brothers is for each to assume a certain responsibility. The man won't work as well as the man who doesn't need to work. But if we're really anxious to right our wrongs we can do it with least harm to ourselves and the world by way of the ballot-box, not the soap-box. By evolution rather than revolution.

Great reforms don't come over night, no more than Rome got built in a day. She wouldn't even have been built yet, if the Roman citizens had all hung around spouting advice, instead of shouldering the hod and taking a hand at pushing the wheelbarrow. Let us forget the vain promises of Socialism, and work out our own construction. SCOTSWOMAN

They are the makers of Jonteel Face Powder, Jonteel Talcum, Jonteel perfumed Klenso Tooth Paste, Kant-Leak Hot Water Bottles and many other articles you see advertised in the best Journals.

Their writing paper and fancy Stationery is also something that makes the line worth while—probably the most elite on the market.

Rexall Chocolates by no means should be forgotten. We have a nice assortment and we trust they will measure up to your demands for better classed goods.

X-Ray A Modern Diagnosis Method

The routine use of the X-ray in the diagnosis of internal diseases such as cancer of the stomach, tuberculosis of the lungs, etc., has now come to be recognized as one of the most important. An interesting fact is given where 1140 drafted men for the U.S. overseas service at one point were examined for chest disease. In 24 per cent of these 1140 men the physical examination failed to reveal a disqualifying chest disease, but in each of these the X-ray had clearly demonstrated the ailment. The X-ray it will be seen is sufficient in itself to diagnose the presence of tuberculosis or other such disease in the human bod.

Developments In British Columbia

Stewart, B.C., on the Portland Canal, the dividing line between Canada and Alaska, is producing the most marvelous development in silver mining in Canadian history. It is even estimated that it will outrival the famous Cobalt country. This year all transportation lines are planning to handle unprecedented business. It is eight years since minerals were discovered in the Stewart country in paying quantities, but recently immense deposits of very highly mineralized ores have been uncovered and now promises to be the richest mineral area in America. Ore values have been found in silver and gold to the extent of thousand of dollars per ton. Diamond drilling and other development work is progressing with great rapidity.

Mr. John Kennedy, Vice-President of the United Grain Growers, the largest organization of its kind in Canada, is at present in Central British Columbia looking after his interests in the Bulkley Valley country where he purchased some farm lands last year. Mr. Kennedy is, enthusiastic over this territory and will have over one hundred acres of crop this season.

THE SYMPATHY OF THE CHILD

"My darling" said the mother who believes in teaching her children by reason and appeal to their tender feelings, "if you are naughty, mama will get ill and have to lie in bed in a dark room and take nasty medicine and then she may die and have to be taken away to the cemetery and be buried, and you—"

The child had become solemn, but an angelic smile overspread his face at his mother's last words, and throwing his arms about her neck, he exclaimed: "O, mama, and may I sit beside the coachman?"

"What does he mean by that?"

"Possibly he has in mind the person who totes his own tray in a cafeteria. If his meal isn't well-balanced, he spills it."

Organize Egg Circle: And Get Better Prices

Under the auspices of the Chauvin District U. F. A. Association, Mr Nash, a government poultry expert gave a very interesting and instructive address on poultry. He gave very explicit instructions as to how to cull the poor layers from out of the flock. He stated that yellow legged birds were poor egg producers, but that the white legged birds always made a better showing in the matter of egg production. He also gave some very useful hints on the erection of houses and shelters for the birds.

Regarding feeding of the flock he recommended grain, wheat, oats or barley, both at night and morning, whilst throughout th day the birds should have access to the following balanced rations:—one part each of crushed oats, crushed corn or barley, shorts, and beef scraps: this ration being placed in a box.

Canadian eggs fetched a higher price on the European market than did American eggs. The price paid to the producers for eggs could be raised if the producers would organize egg circles. This had already been done in Prince Edward Island with marked success. The movement was spreading rapidly, and local producers will find it to their advantage to follow this example,

There is considerable water flowing on top of the ice in the Battle River.

1920 Organization

An enthusiastic meeting was held by the Battle River Athletic Association, April 7th. There were twenty present. The baseeball team was re-organized; and the following officers elected for the season of 1920:— L. Swanstrom, chairman; Ted Martin, sec-tres; Pete Wogberg, W. Gilbertson and Axel Gabrielson, directors.

Membership tickets are being printed and will shortly be offered for sale It is hoped that the association will receive a full measure of support.

A number of the passengers on No. 2 train, Monday, (which was delayed in Chauvin whilst the line was being cleared) visited the Chronicle office. They expressed great surprize at the high standard of the equipment.

As a result of their visit we may shortly see an further increase in the volume of Chauvin's mail order printing business.

Seeding May Begin

End Of This Week

The snow has been rapidly disappearing during the past few days.

On farmer from south, whilst in our office yesterday tells us he expects to start seeding Saturday. His land being high, he is able to begin earlier than most.

Seeding will, in all probability be general throughout the district within a week.

Must Keep Track From

Producer To Consumer

The Institute meeting held by he Chauvin Agricultural Society yesterday afternoon was well attended.

Lt-Col. W. Rodden occupied the chair, and with his usual courteous manner introduced Mr H. E. Spencer, of Edgerton, the speaker of the afternoon.

Mr Spencer in the course of his excellent adress gave his hearers to very clearly understand that it had become necessary for the farmer, in addition to being thoroughly acquainted with the production of his crops and stock, but he must gain a complete knowledge of the course of his product from the farm to the producer. Referring to the prices paid for hides, he instanced the experience of a farmer who had sold two cowhides. This farmer by adding two dollars to the proceeds was able to buy a pair of boots. The prices of harness and saddles were fixed—Why not the price hides? If a fixed price for one, why not a fixed price for all? At present there was too big a difference between cost of the raw products and the finished articles.

The Wheat Board which controlled the marketing of the prout of one industry was composed of eleven men, only two of whom were farmers and one a member of the farmers company did not allow sufficient representation for the producers. Had the farmers been more completely organized they would have had greater representation.

Instancing the cost of organization the speaker referred to the newsboys on the city streets who pay $5.00 and up for the protection of their interests through their union; and so on throughout the sphere of labour, some trades paying as much as $47.00 per year. The farmers through the U-F.A. paid only $2.00—which amount was often hard to collect.

The speaker emphasized the necessity of the farmer taking greater interest in his business; it was not sufficient to be merely producers; they must through their agricultural society improve the practise of farming, and through their U.F. A. and W.A. improve the marketing and laws concerning same.
